NEW YORK, July 17, 2013 /PRNewswire-iReach/ -- Comco Plastics Inc. today announced its separation from The NYTEF Group as it moves to improve services and expand capacity.

Comco Plastics is known internationally for application assistance with conversions from metals to plastics. The company is expanding its organization to allow for new product offerings, greater capacity and continued high-level service. Throughout the past 60 years, the organization has grown globally by offering improved services to both the domestic and international markets with a focus on high performance engineering plastics, polyolefin's and more.

Receiving accolades from its clients and industry partners, Comco has remained focused on cultivating a company culture focused on elevated customer service. "In 2012 Comco was recognized for its consistent on-time delivery", says Tim Butler, VP of Sales. "In fact, we have exceeded expectations for our customers, with over 98% on-time delivery on average." With newly acquired equipment and a well-established team, Comco expects to remain at the forefront of its industry.

Comco Plastics' management anticipates that the fourth quarter of 2013 will see higher demand for services as they expand their ISO Certification from 9001:2008 to include ISO 13485 for medical device and device manufacturing. As one of the largest fabricator of PEEK in North America, Comco Plastics expects to have continued growth in this sector. "Comco Plastics is highly unique in our industry in that we offer a broad range of services to our customers", says Chris Parlante, Operations Manager. "We can mill, turn, fabricate, and assemble parts while also being able to service customers with our distribution activities, including secondary annealing, cut-to-size, and the ability to source custom run materials."

"We are excited about the future" says Michael French, CEO & President. "Comco is a well-oiled machine, with an eye for innovation. Our team has grown to include a robust marketing and advertising team, has expanded its sales force, and has improved its facility to offer our consumers more options. We are looking forward to the year ahead."

Headquartered in Woodhaven, NY, Comco Plastics Inc. is one of the nation's leading suppliers and fabricators of high performance engineering plastics, servicing a broad range of OEM's to the global marketplace.
